SHE WAS BORN IN KENTUCKY

At Death of Drunken Husband she Terrorized Keg Men Beginning in 1900.

Leavenworth Kansas, June 9. Mrs. Carrie Nation, saloon smasher died of paresis here tonight after several months' illness.

Mrs. Nation was born in Kentuck; in 1849 Her maiden rame was Carrie Moore, and as a girl it is said she was absolutely fearless. In early life she married a man addicted to intoxicants, which created her in tense aversion to the saloon. When he died she determined to devote her life to suppression of the liquor traf fic. She moved to Kansas and there married David Nation, who sympathized with her temperance princi-

When Toth hoarded a street car he examined it curiously. It wasn't like the little cars he had known before he went to prison. On the way to the city he expressed surprise at everything he saw. His expressions of wonder and amazement were childlike. He had been hidden from the world for practically the same period of Rip Van Winkle's mythical sleep, and the changes which Rip was supposed to see were no greater than those that filled the wondering eyes of Toth. Utter hewilderment possessed him when he waiked up Fifth avenue to Attorney Goehring's office in the Frick huliding. ile raised his eyes curiously in looking at the walls of the skyscrapers, and seemed to be afraid to glance at their full height. "Our friends would surround of my barnyard friends. medical research with so many restrictions and hindrances as to make it ridiculous. They would, in fact, put it in the position of the English volunteers.

"When England, you know, was threatened by a French invasion in 1802 there were a great many volunteers enlisted. But the articles of incorporation of these volunteers guarded them very carefully against too much fighting. The volunteers were not to take the field 'except in case of actual invasion.' They were not to be put on war rations 'except my third best. In addition to these in case of actual invasion.' They were not to be drilled hard 'except in case of actual invasion.'

"When Pitt, who was then warden of the Cinque Ports, read these articles he frowned and pished. Finally, on towards the end of the document, he came to a provision that under no eireumstances were the volunteers to leave the country. Here he lost patience, and, seizing a pen, he added to that provision the Amusing Story of Frank H. Spearman,

An amusing story is told of Frank H. Spearman, the author of "Robert Kimberly," of the sbock he gave one of the brothers of St. Mary's college, Oakland, Cal. Mr. Spearman sent one of his boys there to school, and, the boy was a great favorite with one of the brothers who was noted for his penmanship, and for his ability to teach it. He prided himself on turning out the best writing pupils of the west, and he thought that Spearman was one of the best of these.

One time Mr. Spearman was talking teacher of writing. He said, "If there is one thing that I do want it is for that boy to be a good writer."

"But indeed he is a good writer," the brother began-"I want him to be a clear, forceful writer, none of your little fancy pen-

Upon this the mild mannered brother rushed to his desk, and brought back some specimens of young Spearman's hand writing. He was in a great flurry of excitement. He was used only to compliments.

Mr. Spearman looked surprised for a moment, and then he began to laugh. "Oh!" he said. "I don't care about his penmanship. I meant that I want him to write good English."

DETECTIVE WILLIAM J. BURNS IS WIDELY KNOWN AS THE "NEVER FAIL."

FAMOUS SECRET SERVICE MAN

Calmed Much Fame When He Ran Down Elusive Counterfeiters tor Unsie Sam-For 25 Years He Has Successfully Tracked Criminals.

Los Angeles, Cal.—William J. Burns, better known as "Billy" Burns to secret service operators and detectives all over the country, and whose most recent claim to fame was the arrest of the McNamara hrothers and Ortic Mc-Manigal for the long series of dynamite erimes throughout the country, is an Ohio product. He was formerly cutter in a tailor shop at Columbus. Something over 30 years ago Burns earned a modest stipend as a cutter in a tailor shop at Columbus, where the uniforms for the police of that city were made. John E. Murphy was chief of police. He and Burns became great friends. Often when Murphy had a hard case he would talk it over with Burns. After the police had worked a week on a murder case Burns criticised the methods employed. He told Murphy the men worked on bad lines. Murphy suggested Burns try his hand and the suggestion was promptly accepted. One week later Burns landed the man and secured a confession. He was taken from the cutter's hench and made a detective, and while he was there made his name a terror to criminals. After a short experience he went with an agency at St. Louis.

Later he became connected with the United States secret service and handied with marked results a great mass of important work. William P. Hazen was chief of that hranch of the treasury when Burns was called into the office during the '90s and shown an almost perfect $100 Monroe head silver certificate that had been caught at the sub-treasury at Philadelphia. A few days later John E. Wilkie was made chief of the secret service and he gave Burns the work and told him to use his own methods. It required sixteen months' work, at the end of that period Burns had the two engravers, the men who circulated the bilis, the plates, and over a million of the bogus notes. He had also discovered that a counterfeit equally good was almost ready to he passed.

Soon after this a counterfeit silver certificate $10 hill bearing the head of Hancock appeared at Atlanta, Ga., where the cotton exposition was under way and many were put in circulation. Burns was put on that. A line he picked up led to Kansas City and invoived a prominent man at the live stock exchange. The man was wealthy and had been in business, known and respected for 20 years. Four weeks Burns trailed that man and, finally made the arrest, found incriminating documents in his pockets and caught $20,000 of the counterfeit hills addressed to the man at the express

He cleaned up the Gen. De Mora and Captain Requesans gang that operated in New York and manufactured bogus hills for circulation in the central American states. He also cleaned up the Brockway, Ulrich and Bradford crowd of counterfeiters and captured all the plates they used in the manufacture of $20 silver certificates. When San Francisco citizens decided on an investigation of graft conditions in that city they went to Washington to get advice about the firm of detectives to make the investigation. Chief Wilkie was asked about it and he said Burns could and would clean it up if they employed him and let him aione. COURT OF CHANCERY.

The chancery court was originally designed to render justice complete by amending the errors and mitigathat were bound to the more strict letter of the law. It gave relief to minors and women who otherwise might come short of their full rights, and looks after all frauds, deceits, breaches of trust and confidence for which there is no redress at common law. It was probably derived from the council of state, under which it originally acted, and of which it finally became independent. The great difficulty with proceedings in chancery is the delay that attends them, justice ofttimes coming too late in the day.

FETES FOR AGED COUPLES How One Family Solved the Problem

How Honor is Paid the Old People in France by Public Festivals.

Rheims has just been celebrating an interesting event, the golden wedding of 60 old couples, says the Westminster Review.

The fete is as old as the Revolution, when it first seems to have begun. in the time of the directory there were and bones, with enough water to cover two fetes, the fete of the old people them, in a fireless cooker receptacle, and the fete of the golden wedding. This seems to have been a very protty affair, to judge from the account in the Dehats. There was a procession of oxen, with their horns crowned with flowers, followed by children crowned with violets, by young men wreathed with myrtie, and old men with garlands of olives and girls dressed as vestal virgins.

At Paris in August, 1797, there was a great festival in honor of the old ly flavored food that keeps fresh in a men, who were all given seats at the cool place for several days. The dogs Opera, when "a gracious Hebe crowned seem to enjoy the food prepared in their white locks with gariands of roses," and the soldlers presented ing thoroughly cooked, and never arms. The idea of the fete was the scerched, and the time occupied in encouragement of the family circle. The old man, who was a happy grandfather, was feted as an encourage ment to the younger generation to follow in his footsteps.

Visiting Cards for Dogs. A novelty in Paris is the lapdos visiting cards. "Poms" and pugs which go visiting with their mistresses in fashionable circles in Paris are to have their own tiny pasteboards tucked away in little pockets of their outdoor coats. Such dogs have two sets of cards, which are left on other dogs at the houses where they are calling with their mistresses. One card gives the dog's real name and its race, while the other records its pet name joined to the family name of its owner. Cards are left according to the pedigree of the dog visited.

A physician in London, Dr. William Martin Richards, has had occasion to ohserve a relation existing between Locks of every imaginable kind the eyes and the voice and has reon the market a keyless door lock that came under his treatment where Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. | Courier Journal? that is rapidly taking the place of actresses who had lost their voices the lock of the old style, Harper's completely recovered them when treated for defectivo eyes and fitted with proper glasses.

He tells of one young woman in whose family eye diseases were heredplate and a knoh and they can be itary who found herself at the ago placed on any door. Instead of the of twenty-two losing her voice. Her eyes were found to be in need of attention and when sho had been supplied with glasses sho promptly recovered her singing voice. When she discarded the glasses some time later and her eyes were once more neglected her voice also relapsed into a husky state that preeluded all singing. This practitioner has observed a number of similar cases and the discovery of the relatlen between the eyes and the voice should certainly be valuable to stage folk and others who depend largely upon their voices for their status in the world.

Manuscript of Thirteenth Century. While reading a French book of the sixteenth century in the univercity Ilhrary, St. Andrews, the German lecturer, Dr. Schaaffs, noticed somo fragments of an old French poem which the hinder had pasted on back and covers of the book.

After loosening them he removed the glue and out of the four pieces ohtained composed two larger pieces, parts of two leaves of a manuscript written in a beautiful and clear type in two columns of thirty-nine lines each, 144 in all, with red and blue initials. The names occurring in the text leave no doubt that the fragments contain parts of the old French chason "Le Roman de Girard de Viane," and from the language and the script it appears that the manuscript was written between 1250 and Airing a Fumigated Room.

To air a room that has been fumlgated after a contagious sickness, before entering it, this plan is suggested. Before sealing up the room for fumigating, fasten two screw-eyes into the lower edge of the upper sash of a window in the room; to these tie a heavy cord, leaving the loop between long enough to hang within easy reach of a window on the floor helow. After the room has been sufficiently fumigated, pull the cord from the lower window, thus opening the upper window and letting the fresh air in and the close air out.-Woman's Home Companion.
